

The World Community
for Christian Meditation - USA

Of Irish and English parentage, Laurence Freeman was educated by the Benedictines and studied English Literature at Oxford University. Before entering monastic life, he worked with the United Nations in New York, in banking and journalism. He is the director and spiritual guide of the World Community for Christian Meditation, an inclusive contemplative community. Fr Laurence inaugurated and taught an MBA course on Meditation and Leadership at the Georgetown University School of Business in 2013. He now resides at Bonnevaux, the WCCM's international home in France, and a center for peace where meditation is practiced and taught as a way to personal and social transformation.

Jesus speaks to the world with the authority of his oneness with the Father. This oneness is the gift of the Holy Spirit. He prayed that all may be one as God is one. "Unified Consciousness" simply means the integration of mind and heart and it is the fruit of deep prayer active in selfless love. Even though the term may sound abstract at first, it is exactly what we experience as the fruits of meditation become obvious in our lives.
